

FOR AN INVESTMENT

Max Steinbuechel Purchases a Brick Business Block.

CONSIDERATION IS $6,000

Building Located at 250 North Main Street.

A deal for a fine brick business block in this city was consummated yesterday, and as a result Mr. Max Steinbuechel now owns the business property at 250 North Main street, the consideration being $6,000.

The building is now occupied on the lower floor by the Vienna bakery and the upper floors are used for office and dwelling rooms. The building is three stories high and has a number of fine rooms in it.

The original cost of the building is much above the price paid for it by Mr. Steinbuechel. The purchase of the property for an investment will prove satisfactory there can be no doubt.

The building prior to its purchase by Mr. Steinbuechel was owned by Joseph D. Wilde of California, who purchased the property a number of years ago. He usually came here some time during the year to look after the property, but lately has not been a Wichita visitor.

The property under the care of Mr. Steinbuechel will be repaired should it so need it and the rooms placed in splendid condition. The building is substantially built and presents a handsome appearance.

The fact that Wichita people are buying home property is a splendid indication that the property values of the city are increasing. There is a common complaint at the present time that the price on business property is increasing. Buyers for good bargains are much in evidence, but the action of Mr. Steinbuechel proves that he is watching the real estate market.

In addition to the demand for business property there is a steady demand for residence property and people who come to the city find it almost impossible to rent houses of convenient size. This fact will undoubtedly mean that many new residence buildings will go up in Wichita within the near future.

LOOKING AT FAIR VENUS.
Wichita Spends a Great Day Rubber-Necking.

At fourteen minutes past 9 o'clock yesterday morning a man from Kiowa, sitting on a hydrant and gazing, with a far-away look in his eyes at the vast dome of heaven and dreaming of mother and home, suddenly fell off his seat and exclaimed:

"Suffering and blue-eyed Moses!"

A little crowd gathered around him and gazed curiously upon the Kiowa man, and leaned towards a stairway to run if the lunatic took after them.

"If I have a star and in broad daylight!" exclaimed the Kiowa man.

About half the crowd got away with the quickness of Aginaldo's Home Guards, but one bystander asked, "Where?"

The Kiowa man turned his sweet, innocent face to look at section 7, range 6, township 21, in the blue empyrean and looked for that star. It was gone.

"I can't find it now," said the Kiowa man and the crowd went away sorrowfully.

But the Kiowa man was mad. He got up on that hydrant again and glued his optics on the heaven sky. After three minutes before he found that star again.

He could see a man approaching, out of the corner of his eye. He never moved his position, but yelled:

"Say!"

The man stopped and looked curiously on the human statue.

"Don't touch me," said the Kiowa man.

"What are you?" asked the stranger.

"I've got it. It's there. I know it was there. Heaven bless me, I've got it again!"

The man got behind him, stooped down, shaded his eyes, screwed his mouth up and said: "Why, it is a star, sure enough."

And that started it. All day long the shady sides of the streets were crowded with people looking at Fair Venus, a fine, clear diamond through the crystal air, whiter than the sunlight.

Hundreds of people spent hours manuevering for a glimpse of this transient from the darkness, this gem dropped from the jewel box of Night.

The curious part about it was that when a man had once located it, and turned his eyes away, even for an instant, it immediately became invisible. If a man took even a long breath it would flicker out of vision. That was why so many men who saw it and in turning to show it to a companion and lost it, felt like looking himself. One man, however, stationed himself in front of the Eagle office and stayed there the day through with the star nailed down.

And this is the way he got people to see it.

"See those two wires there—no, not that one—see all the wires?" "Well, now see that wire a little way apart; now see those two insulators—well, they form a

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one specific remedy for this, as it transforms poor blood into perfect blood—from which follows the greatest of blessings, good health.

triangle with that wire and those two other wires coming from the Bank of Commerce. Now, do you see the triangle? We've lost it in my tracks. Get down lower. Put your head over this way. Now, look two feet to the north. No, turn your head a little this way. Here, put your foot here. Now look there. Don't you see it?"

"No," said the new man sadly and guiltily. "No, I don't."

And then the man went all over it again.

"I don't believe you see it, either," said the new rubber-necker.

Then the man would get mad. "Now, stand here; see that wire—well, I'll be darned—I've lost it myself."

The interest in the star kept up until late in the afternoon, when the thickening atmosphere hid it.

Now, Venus on very clear days is visible to the human eye. It is not at all infrequent. It is a very pretty and curious sight, and after one man had started it yesterday morning the town went wild about it. The telescope man did a thriving business.

And there are three thousand men in Wichita today with sore necks and blurred eyes who do not believe that anybody saw that star.

WILL SERVE REFRESHMENTS
Ladies in Charge of Art Display Have More Plans.

The ladies in charge of the Helman art display are making every effort possible for the success of their project. The display will be on exhibition during the street fair. The Hamilton parlor will be a bower of beauty after the art collection has been put in place. Such a picture exhibit has never reached Wichita before, and it will be many a day before the citizens will have such a treat again.

Duplicates of the exhibited pictures will be given by the Federated Clubs of the city to each ward school and the universities. Such philanthropy cannot be over estimated by the parents of the thousands of school children of the city.

No one features of the fair week will go farther towards making the visiting thousands enjoy the time.

The ladies in charge of each day are fully in touch with the great art world and will make the art rooms a veritable center of delight. Dainty frappe will be served each day and evening to each and all free of charge.

Everybody will surely visit this great display.

WENT OVER ROUTE NUMBER 2.
People All Much Interested in Rural Delivery.

Yesterday Mr. A. L. Thompson and Mr. E. B. Jewett went over the proposed route for the rural mail service in Minnehaha township. The route as traveled takes in a large amount of territory and reaches a large number of people. Maps of the route are being made and will be submitted to the postoffice department.
